The whole idea is to provide a medium which teachers, students and even employers can use to communicate instantly and easily. Users are able to create user accounts, which are merely login/password combinations. This ensures privacy but without any barriers. They can store personal preferences in these accounts and also create groups for their friends and colleagues. The settings can be changed to suit the user's personal needs, while viewing a content update can be done instantly; users need to only press a button. Developers can use this tool to add several educational features such as quizzes, questionnaires, surveys, etc. The ILIAS toolkit also offers a module creation and customization solution. Due to the fact that the software is so widely used in many different educational institutions, the developers and vendors provide it as a standardized package. One can imagine the level of customization possible in the large scope of software that is available on the market, while also being sure that the program, as an official and standard product, is completely compatible with other tools. This covers the fact that the site can handle up to thousands of users, making it quite cost effective. Many companies are beginning to expand their reach into online learning with the use of ILIAS; therefore it has become a very acceptable and growing medium. ILIAS components: - Community - Lecture - Groups - Feedback - Thread - Term - Posting and Replying - Contributions - Files - Calendar - Tutorial - Contacts - Email - Newsletter - Project - News and Notifications - FAQ - Jobs - Task - Report - User - Search - Help and Support - Content - My Account ...html5 based business template that is fully responsive and mobile device optimized. ILIAS 2022

ILIAS provides a framework and tools for planning and implementing education-based internet projects, including wikis, online courses, discussion groups, real-time e-mails, tests, and surveys. The PHP code used to link modules together is well-documented, making it easy for developers to use the framework to build customized websites. The framework allows users to build custom websites at no cost. However, you are encouraged to create fully featured extensions in the spirit of the Open Source Movement, which include documentation, bug tracking, source, and release documentation. ILIAS components and features include: Introduction The ILIAS framework is a collection of pre-made templates and modules for the digital delivery of course, events, discussion groups, and surveys. Most of the modules can be used on multiple web sites, so the cost of development is minimal. Developers can also use the components to create powerful web sites. The use of ILIAS in education projects is especially attractive because it is free of charge and does not require any special hardware or software to be employed. ILIAS also includes tools for the administration of project-based websites. You can administer modules and users, and perform backups on an ongoing basis. The components of ILIAS can be extended easily and easily to integrate new services. The following are the features of the ILIAS framework: Detailed documentation Developers can gain a comprehensive understanding of the software by reading a user guide and documentation. In addition, this documentation is not exclusive to developers who create extensions or modules for the ILIAS framework. Accessibility ILIAS has a unique accessibility feature that enables all developers to create modules and templates without requiring special training. This feature is especially valuable as students, teachers, and administration personnel all use ILIAS. Free The developers of the ILIAS framework are pleased to release their software without charge. They understand that there are many benefits to open-source development, including the promotion of inexpensive software. In addition, the ILIAS framework is not dependent on other proprietary software to function and thus provides a significant benefit. Your Purchase In order to purchase ILIAS, you need to register as a developer for an annual fee of only $14. This fee includes the free license for development purposes. The monthly maintenance fee for an ILIAS license is also $14. The annual fee allows you to modify ILIAS and increase its usability. The monthly fee for maintenance includes many database changes, and any bugs. Security

What's New in the ILIAS?

The relationship between gaming and education in recent years has become more and more complicated, whether because it is possible to play games online without moving from the sofa or because, on the contrary, games can be used as a supplement to educational work. The result is that we have so many educational games on the market that they have become a category that, in Italy, is approaching a “crisis of growth.” This is the case of Learning Games, which have been a very popular format for a long time. Learning Games have a certain degree of effectiveness and form part of the teaching-learning instruments that schools use to develop their students’ creativity, imagination, problem-solving skills and empathy. But in recent years, a new trend has arisen that tries to not only try to play to this genre, but even add any sort of interactive experience, through objectives and levels of difficulty that affect not just the usual “win-lose” calculation of success, but the emotional side, which is also a crucial factor in the development of the human being. The result of all this is that, of course, there are some games that work, but there are a lot of games that do not work because they are not suited to their audience, with the result that many parents and teachers who download them are disappointed. This is why this project comes in the form of an educational toolkit that can be used and customized and that can be used to generate such games and experiences, but that will also be configurable according to the user’s taste. The aim of this project is to produce a toolkit that focuses on the following features, which is not exhaustive: Exploring the potential educational applications of games and simulation to give our children a sense of adventure and immersion, which our students are often missing. Generating games and simulations that can be used in school settings as well as in the homes of children. Creating the potential to make these games and simulations a key part of our day-to-day lives and work that we do. This framework provides the necessary technical infrastructure to deploy in schools and homes, offering a range of tools that, instead of being mere entertainment, bring games to schools in an educational and interesting way, with teachers and pupils being able to create interactive experiences that can enhance creativity and imagination, personal development, teamwork and problem-solving skills, and that also teach us a lot about the real world.
