A typical cat game with cats. The cats are collected and "become" cats. They have a cats brain and can follow your moves. The cats will have to give the word to their "cat confederation" to have their power increased. Their brain is very "interested" in you. But this raises the question: Are the cats able to... -know what you're thinking? -duplicate you? -knock you down? -...??? Without a doubt, it's the most challenging cat game ever! What is there to do in Cat Fu Mi? To play the game, you need four numbers. You have to match two numbers on your cat. To start the game, you have to pick two cats. The cats have to do "cat stuff" during the game. To complete a match, the two cats must be opposite numbers. If you win, you get money. The higher your score, the more cash you get. The more cats you have, the more money you get. How do you create your cat? There are three kinds of cats : -Your cat has a gender : -Your cat has his/her own image : -Your cat has a sound and reacts with pleasure when he/she hears the sound. Note that every type of cat has one more attribute than the other. The sound of your cat is your lot or (number). The amount of points and the special powers of the cats depend upon your numbers. The cats have two kinds of special power : -Hovering special powers : -Support special powers : Only cats with "hovering" special powers can hover in the game. The hover effect doesn't last long, and it doesn't register your cat in any way. Hovering doesn't change the game much, but it's a good way to see the number of cats you have. Only cats with "supporting" special powers are good at supporting you. They move more slowly and they push you away. Only the cats with "supporting" special powers are good at supporting you. -How are the points awarded in the game? There are only two kinds of points : -1 point for each match : -3 points for winning a cat (the best user interface). Note that winning the last cat (unfortunately) isn't enough.

The Age of Erotica is here!

Hello! Here is my very first review, my application to Modding Hall of Fame! :D I selected this game as my first because it's kinda boring, but with time it will be tons of fun; BUT I must say that that it's enormously erotic, that's the main point of this review; a massive boost of eroticism.

P.S.: I'm going to be pasting some text from fanpages; it'll be long, but this is only to show all!

Karen Sees is a scary and action horror game for PC, Mac and Linux. The game is inspired by real-world people who have, at some point, witnessed a Themester living in their city. Some of them became insane, others were found dead soon after and many others still are actively seeking a help. The Karen-AI waits in the mall, enraged, with a long knife and loves to spread terror in the unsuspecting. To survive the night, use cameras and tricks in the dark to evade detection and avoid getting caught, eliminate notes in the gigantic mall, hunt for their blood before dawn! This is a remake of the 2011 game Dark Solus Project, also a Zend Games Developed by Jukka Kokkonen, Simo Räihä and the World of Padgh. The remake was released in 2014. - Controls Use W, A, S and D to move in the in-game menu's Use T to open / close the menu or fly back to the game Use K to use the map Use O to use the flashlight - Gameplay You start in a place you call home. Your wife and kids are safe at home. It's a dark night, full of fear. But your home is not safe. A creature stalks your house! Soon after, you realize, that a group of persons are about to kill you, all in your wife's presence. So you must survive the night. In a spooky, unknown and haunted place, you must fight, survive and escape. What awaits you on the other side? - Game story and characters This game revolves around a mysterious shadow named Themester. He is a near-death being and believes, that only one creature in the whole of existence, his brother Dementor, can bring him back to life. So to confront his brother, Themester travels through different worlds and dimensions. In the modern world, Themester finds out, that his brother is still alive, and he's a shadow in a shopping mall, watching everything and stalking his victim. Where are you?- A name you choose yourself. Will you stay at your home and die? Do you want your family back?- Then go to your home. In your home you will see your wife and kids. But you cannot leave without giving them a chance to escape. - Other characters Do you have the strength to save the day? c9d1549cdd

What's new in The Incredible Adventures Of Super Panda:

Wednesday, January 4, 2015 Kakureza Library Words in the Wind Thirty-one years ago, in the spring of 1980, I was asked to work for Kakureza Library and one of the first things I was told was that I would not be paid. These were the days when the library boards of rural schools had trust funds of hundreds of thousands of dollars to spend on educational programs. The then board of directors hired me as a non-salaried assistant in a program called "Literacy for All." Basically, this program focused on the reading and the writing, the creation of a "homely" library, and use of these resources in the classroom, with emphasis on the teacher's role. I vividly remember sitting at the long wooden table with my monitor – metal alphabet blocks that alternated letters and spaces – and an alphabet book that was being used to spell out words. Looking back, I remember I was having fun, and I am sure I got paid something like thirty dollars a week. After six weeks, I was fired. I was filled with resentment and cynicism about programs created by school boards for students that lacked the funds to create their own. I hadn't watched out for my own interests, which were to get free training in systematic library education. The library fund needed teachers who actually knew what to teach, particularly school librarians. Thirty years later, I am still teaching, and still teaching about the library. There is no question I have learned much, for I have been involved with libraries in many ways. After the program was terminated, I became a references librarian at the University of Idaho, and then I moved to the Northwest Native Language Center where I taught a literature course in Ojibwa. Ten years later, I went back to college, this time as a librarian and my first graduate program. Finally, in 1998, I became a librarian for the university where I got the chance to serve on the library board as we finally began to build the Daniel K. Inglis Library. Although I have not worked at Kakureza since my early termination, I have continued to be a teacher at the university, and I have never forgotten my first experiences working at the library and teaching library literacy. The old saying is that "you can have the best teaching job in the world, but if your students don't like you, you will be found out."

Firewatch is an award-winning first-person mystery set deep in the Redwood forests of Northern California. Firewatch's events unfold in real-time, with decisions you make now impacting the story down the line. Key Game Features: Build Your Own Thematic Experience Firewatch can be played as a single-player experience, where you and the supporting characters tell their own story. But, a single-player experience does not have to be a linear experience. In Firewatch you can choose when and how to approach and solve puzzles, allowing players to experience the story in an infinite number of different ways. Create Your Own Compelling Relationship with the Characters Firewatch is a single-player experience, where your choices and actions affect the supporting cast. When exploring the park you will befriend the characters. As relationships progress, characters will provide you with emotional support and help you solve puzzles. Discover Fire Watch is an open-ended single-player experience, allowing you to build your own Thematic Experience. Fire Watch is about telling your own story. Escape Or Mystery? Fire Watch is a multi-layered mystery. Every decision you make can have a significant impact on the game's story, gameplay and environmental design. The Park Environment Fire Watch begins deep in the Redwood forests of Northern California. As the novel progresses, you will see iconic locations, from an abandoned mine to an old science facility. These locations will be richly detailed, each with unique character and history. Some locations will be familiar to the player from content in other games, such as Black Mesa. Optional Discovery Gameplay System Firewatch's story unfolds through the eyes of a rookie park ranger. Campers offer options as to how much information you disclose about yourself and your actions, so that the player can discover their own ending. The optional discovery system gives Firewatch a unique element of gameplay that keeps players immersed in the story. Multiple Rewards The Park Handout - Episode One will give players an outside perspective on the story, and the option to view the events from the perspective of protagonist Helen. It will also give players the Park Handout - Episode Two, which will be a digital prequel to episode one. The Park Handout - Episode One is required to start the game, and the prequel will be required to start Episode Two. A Deeper Dive Into Fire Watch is an open-ended multi-layered single-player experience. You can
