Evaluation of Sclerod eWash-100 for rapid detection of Salmonella in foods. Sclerod eWash-100 is an easy-to-use system that may be used to rapidly detect Salmonella in foods. This study evaluated the system's performance with a sample of four food matrixes (i.e., eggs, liquid manure, milk, and fresh-cut lettuce) spiked with Salmonella at ca. 10(3) colony-forming units per sample and with 52 culture samples from the food and animal-feeding industries. The Sclerod eWash-100 system detected a high percentage (94%) of Salmonella-spiked foods with 8 h of enrichment. There was no difference in sensitivity between the Sclerod eWash-100 system and the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Bacteriological Analytical Manual reference method (P = 0.06). The sensitivity was comparable to that of one of the two enrichment media evaluated (SalmONE, US Food and Drug Administration, Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition, Atlanta, Ga.). The Sclerod eWash-100 system also detected a high percentage of Salmonella from the culture samples (75%). Significantly less time, 24 h for the culture method and 8 h for the Sclerod eWash-100 system, was required for the detection of Salmonella than for the culture method. The Sclerod eWash-100 system may be a valuable tool for rapid testing and detection of Salmonella in foods, thereby providing assurance of safety and quality.Q: How can I tell whether my program is Single-thread d0c515b9f4

I've tried to find the solution on google, but as a vb.Net programmer I can't exactly navigate these C/C++ solutions. A: This should solve the problem. using System.Text; using System.IO; using System; using System.Collections.Generic; using System.IO.Pipes; class Program { static void Main(string[] args) { using (var h = new NamedPipeServerStream(@"\\.\pipe\THNettyPipe")) { h.WaitForConnection(); string Data; int NumBytes; using (var reader = new StreamReader(h)) { Data = reader.ReadLine(); while (!String.IsNullOrEmpty(Data)) { NumBytes = reader.BaseStream.Read(Data, 0, Data.Length); Console.WriteLine(Data.Substring(0, NumBytes)); Data = reader.ReadLine(); } } Console.WriteLine(); using (var writer = new StreamWriter(h)) { Console.WriteLine("Start thread to write to the other end");
