Spontaneous resolution of placenta accreta: a case report. Spontaneous resolution of placenta accreta is a rare event. We present a case of placenta accreta with successful peripartum management without complication or bleeding. A 28-year-old woman at 34 weeks' gestation was delivered by cesarean section for a clinical diagnosis of placenta previa. After delivery, she required laparotomy for intractable vaginal bleeding, and the placenta was found to be prolapsed through the posterior vaginal fornix. She recovered from the surgery and was discharged home with no further complications. Because of this, we suggest elective delivery at 34 weeks' gestation instead of the clinical diagnosis of placenta previa in pregnant women.

Q: How to prevent template tag from limiting the number of characters in the input? I have the following template tag:

import re # insert vars from data context def render_field(field, context):
    html = "" # Split first character to be in list of lower-case words length = len(field)
    word = field[:1] # split rest of word
    for x in field[1:]:
        words = re.split(r" +", field, x) # Is current character in list of lower-case words?
        # If yes, replace character with html tag
        is_word = any(word in word for word in words) html += tag('span', {'class': 'input-group-text'}) # If not, escape character (so we don't get HTML errors)
        if not is_word:
            html += tag('span', {'class': 'input-group-text', 'title': '&#' + str(x) + ';' })
        if x == word:
            html += tag('a', {'href': '#' })

Former Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, who is battling pancreatic cancer, is "in good spirits," according to her chief of staff. "Chief Justice [John] Roberts called her yesterday, and she was in good spirits," her chief of staff, Wendy Lee Graham, said in a statement on Friday. "Her spirits are high, and she is looking forward to resuming the oral argument calendar," she added. Earlier this week, Ginsburg canceled a fourth public appearance because she had developed a fever. She received a late-April pancreatic cancer diagnosis last month. The 85-year-old, who has been the subject of intense media scrutiny and speculation on her health, was hospitalized in December for pneumonia. "She was admitted to the hospital on Dec. 25, 2019, and discharged on Jan. 7, 2020," according to a statement from the Supreme Court. Ginsburg has had both pancreatic and colon cancer, a lung cancer survivor as well as a survivor of pancreatic cancer before that. Ginsburg made history for being the first woman to ever serve on the Supreme Court, holding the position since 1993. She has had a storied legal career, making her name prominent in women's rights and LGBT rights issues. Democrats have already proposed that the last two female justices, Sonia Sotomayor and Elena Kagan, be appointed to the Supreme Court to ensure there is no conflict of interest if Ginsburg eventually steps down.

Senate Democrats were prepared to sue the Trump administration over the executive order that bars people from seven majority-Muslim countries from entering the U.S. if it goes into effect, sources told The Hill. They are also pushing to end what they call a "national emergency" amid the coronavirus outbreak. The White House said in a statement that the last two days have been "a complete disaster from top to bottom," even though President Trump and Secretary of State Mike Pompeo "have exercised extreme caution and sound judgement in protecting Americans abroad."
