We're at the library!

Anyone can catch this game at The Squirt Towers near the History Museum.

The squirt climbs 3 floors a level and then stops at the sky cube to go up and down. Click & Click.

Squirt Bullets

The game uses a two-part system of score and feedback to keep things interesting. There are 4 open community buckets - three for loss in 'class' and one for points. The 3 main classes are First Responder, Emergency, First Responder. In addition to this you also have Fire Bucket, Basic,, Ultralight, but no base class, sharpshooter, or homing bucket classes. As with the points buckets, these 4 classes feed 3 types of buckets. A loss to the crimson fire, rescuer, and tardy buckets would each fill a Basic bucket. Three orange rescue buckets would each fill an Ultralight bucket. And lastly, one crimson and one blue bomber bucket would receive the Fuel usage feedback.

Reportedly the game is so hard that the first puzzlegazer to reach the sky cube knows the difficulty level before joining. Despite this, the game has a growing community of new puzzlegazers joining. Check out the game on Squirt!

Equipment

The goal of the game is to collect the most points in less time. What needs to be collected and in what amount are left to the player.

There are a few equipment items that are required, as well as a few that provide feedback.
