Offer to the Vampire a Scotch? Skip all of that, open up your inventory and look under the weapon drop-down. You will see an item called "three-sword weapon" or something. Simply click on it and it will open up a menu where you can choose what weapon you want. See the images below for what each of the weapons do and what the names are. The Best Source To Learn Game Hacking: <https://guidedhacking.com/> Cheat Engine Tutorial: Find God Mode and 1 Hit Kills for Almost Any Game. Intermediate Steps: If you are at this point and the script still doesn't work it is likely that you are dealing with some sort of cheat prevention software. Don't give up hope, there are a couple fairly simple things that can still be done. 1) Compile the script to.exe form and rename the program to something non-threatening to the game. -Explanation: Look here in the docs for how to compile, it is very well written and I will not be re-creating the wheel here. This method is a fairly simple workaround for most 'hackshield' type softwares. -Examples: Rename to something generic or the same as something legit(setup.exe, skype.exe) possibly

How To Hack Talesrunner hack.Q: Efficient way to create a dict from a list of tuples to get different types in to a dict? I have a list of tuples list = [(1.2, 3), (1, 2), (3, 4), (5, 6), (6, 7)] The value of each tuple will be a dict with a key and a value. A dict key may be added more than once. For the first line, the key is "a" and the value is "b". For the second line the key is "b" and the value is "a". For the third line, the key is "a" and the value is "c". The value of "a" or "b" may be changed later. The number of tuples is arbitrary. I need a more efficient way than this: dict = {} list = [] for x, y in list: dict[x] = y A: This is an interesting problem. Here's one way: from collections import defaultdict list = [(1.2, 3), (1, 2), (3, 4), (5, 6), (6, 7)] new_dict = defaultdict(dict) for (x, y), *_ in list: new_dict[y].setdefault(x, {}) new_dict[y][x] = y You could probably code a lot better than this, but this should be fast. Q: How to map a Servlet with a Class I'm having some troubles when mapping a servlet with a Class. With a servlet mapping, I usually do like this: ServletA servlets.ServletA But now, I need to return a list of objects. In this case, I have a simples class: public class MyClass{ public String getString(){ return "String"; } public String getInteger(){ return "Integer"; } //More getters and setters... public void myMethod() {} } My question is, how to map this servlet with MyClass? A: One option is a POJO containing the list of items. This is convenient as the list of items is transient and doesn't need to be serialized. However, you will need to modify your servlet to receive a ServletInputStream in the POST method and parse the request body to populate your list.
