I am getting the following error: Error in kable(print(plot(model_matrix, "", main = "", xlab = "", : unused argument (xlab = "")) Here is my R chunk: plot(model_matrix, main = "", xlab = "", ylab = "") I have read this thread, but it is too advanced for me. How do I get around this? I really like the package that allows the writer to easily print off and hand out their R code. A: A couple things: First, your code is just fine. See?kable for details. Second, kable requires at least R version 2.14.0. On the install page for knitr, it states that it requires R version 2.11.1+. I'm not sure which version of R it was designed for. As a quick fix, you can do: library(knitr) knit('/path/to/your.Rmd', tangle = TRUE, outfile = 'output.md') Then, just run: markdown('/path/to/output

Poolandbilliards.com As of this writing, this is the only app I know that lists pool halls by state. Because of the difficulties involved with building a quality list of pool halls and billiard rooms, only the most popular destinations are listed. If you have a suggestion for a good pool hall, drop me a line. THE app is free.
